MYSTERIOUS POISONING

Mother and Daughter Dead

BOSTON, Nov 9. Mrs. Hannah Toole and her daughter Margaret died suddenly within a few minutes of each other, at their home on Third street, South Boston, Tuesday. They had partaken of some food or porter. When suddenly Mrs. Toole fell to the floor. Her daughter hastened to her mother's aid but she too fell suddenly. The strength and reeled and fell almost upon the body of her mother. Both died before medical assistance could be summoned. It is believed that either the food or porter contained poison and they will be analyzed by the Medical Examiner. Mrs. Toole was 65 and her daughter 25 years old. Mr. Toole, the father, is seriously ill, having been confined to the bed three months. The news of the death of his wife and daughter has not been imparted to him, it being feared it would hasten his end.

ENDS HIS OWN LIFE

A Former Newspaper Man Shoots Himself Through the Heart

NEW YORK, Nov 9. Henry Vincent, a Frenchman, committed suicide this morning at 8 Varick street, where he rented a furnished room. He shot himself through the heart. Vincent came to this country five months ago and his wife and four children are said to be in Paris. He spoke of his brother being a Catholic priest in Brooklyn. Papers found upon the person of the suicide showed that he had been editor of the now defunct Imperialist journal, La Patrie, in Paris.

Vincent was a friend of the late Gen. Boulanger and La Patrie was the latter's organ. After Boulanger committed suicide La Patrie fell off in circulation and soon ceased to exist.

CHARTER OAK RACES

Good Day and Good Track Announced

HARTFORD, Nov 9. Beautiful weather prevailed at Charter Oak Park this morning, with rather a strong variable breeze to chilly to anticipate very fast time, although the track is in excellent condition, except it is not quite dry enough in some spots. All horses advertised to purse it, ready to start, and there is a good crowd of people from all over the State.

Zimmerman, before he left the track yesterday, offered to bet $1 000 he could beat Directum in a mile race and a race may be arranged later on. He said he would be willing to race the horse, giving Directum 20 yards start. Bicycle men complain that the track has been scraped in such a way as to be disadvantageous to a bicycle rider.

RECEIVER APPOINTED

For the American Steam Boiler Insurance Company

NEW YORK, Nov 9. Deputy Attorney General Lardner to-day, made application for the appointment of a receiver of the American Steam Boiler Insurance Company. The application was opposed by lawyer Frayer, representing some of the stockholders of the company. He made serious charges against certain persons connected with the company which he wished to put in affidavits. For this reason Justice Andrews gave a few days to present the facts in proper form.

CRUISER NEW YORK

Reports Regarding Her Construction

NEW YORK, Nov 9. The Times says: The big armored cruiser New York has been so badly constructed as to prevent her entering a single dry dock in the United States. The New York has been regarded as the fleetest warship in the combination which the United States possesses. It is now declared she is unstable, and what is worse, it is impossible to learn in this country the vessel's exact condition. The defects in the vessel make it mandatory that to place her in a dry dock she must be sent to some foreign country.

CONSTRUING THE LAW.

Decision of Court in the Curran-Clayton Case.

Question Defective Ballots Under Present System.

Following is the decision of the Court in the Ward seven election case:

William F. Curran vs. William J. Clayton.

WHITEHOUSE, J.

At the municipal election held in the City of Bangor on the second Monday of March, 1893, the parties to the proceeding were opposing candidates for the position of Alderman from Ward seven.

The plaintiff was declared by the warden to have 310 of 627 ballots cast for Alderman, received from the ward clerk a certificate of his election as Alderman, took the qualifying oath and entered upon the discharging of the duties of the office.

Subsequently however the Board of Aldermen on the 11th ballots cast for Alderman in ward seven contested for the defendant in this action which had been rejected by the warden and effectively in the ballot box and declaring that there was no election of Alderman in that ward, ordered a new election to be held on the eighth day of May. In this second election the plaintiff refused to participate and the defendant was duly elected.

The defendant now brings the case to this Court by an information in the nature of a quo warranto, claiming that the first election was void, by reason of the illegal action of the Board of Aldermen in counting the ballots rejected as defective and irregular were properly counted for the defendant.

The six ballots in question were properly rejected by the warden and improperly counted for the defendant by the Board of Aldermen.

It is provided in sect. 10 of Ch. 202 of the public laws of 1891 (popularly known as the Australian Ballot Law) that the ballots shall be so printed as to leave a blank space at the right of the name of the party or political designation, and that the voter shall cast his vote by making a cross (X) in the space opposite the name of the party or political designation for whom he votes, and that the ballots so voted shall be deemed to have voted for all of the persons named in the group under such party or designation or for any person named and designated in the space provided for a write-in choice for each office to be filled.

It is further provided by sect. 27 that if a voter marks more than one name for any office in the ballot, no votes shall be counted for such office, unless it can be ascertained from the context of the ballot that the voter intended to vote for one of the persons named in the group under such party or designation or for any person named and designated in the space provided for a write-in choice for each office to be filled.

It is further provided by sect. 27 that if a voter marks more than one name for any office in the ballot, no votes shall be counted for such office, unless it can be ascertained from the context of the ballot that the voter intended to vote for one of the persons named in the group under such party or designation or for any person named and designated in the space provided for a write-in choice for each office to be filled.

It will be observed that this act for 1891 contains no express provision for squares on the ballot.

With respect to the ballots in controversy it appears that on the one designated No. 1 the cross (X) was placed by the voter above the name of the defendant as candidate for Alderman and not in the appropriate place at the right of it on No. 3 there was a cross above and also one beneath the defendant's name, but none at the right of it on No. 6 the cross was placed at the left of the defendant's name, on No. 22 there was a cross under the party name at the head of the ticket, and one at the left of the defendant's name, and on No. 8 there was a cross (X) whatever but a short straight line drawn diagonally across the square at the right of the party name of the defendant's ticket.

On No. 18 not a ticket directly there was a cross in the square at the right of the name of each candidate except for Mayor on the defendant's ticket, and a cross in the square at the right of the party name on another ticket.

It is contended by the defendant that notwithstanding these defaults of the voters the requirements of the statute, the voter's intention in each instance was sufficiently disclosed by the marks actually made, that it was not impossible to ascertain the voter's choice, and that the provisions of law requiring the preparation of the ballot by the voter should be construed as directory and not mandatory. In order that the intention of the electors may be effectuated and not defeated whenever it can be ascertained by an inspection of the ballot.

Whatever weight this argument may have been entitled to, or may have received under the system which formerly prevailed in the conduct of elections, it must be remembered that the act of 1891, now under consideration, was designed to inaugurate an important departure from the mode of voting which had existed in this State prior to its passage.

It is a recognized and familiar principle that the elective franchise, though guaranteed by the constitution as a sacred privilege to the people, is there named as a privilege to be exercised under such regulations and restrictions as the legislature may deem reasonably necessary to secure in order the elections, prevent intimidation, bribery and fraud, preserve the purity of the ballot box and thus secure a genuine expression of public sentiment.

It is not claimed that there is any thing unconstitutional or difficult to be understood in the regulations established by the act in question.

Its distinguishing feature is its careful provision for a secret ballot. The leading purpose of it was to give the elector an opportunity to cast his vote in such a manner that no other person would know for whom candidate he voted, and thus to protect him against all improper influences and enable him to enjoy absolute freedom from restraint and entire independence in the expression of his choice. It was designed to secure complete and inviolable secrecy in this respect, and under established rules of construction it should be examined with reference to the mischief to be remedied and the object to be accomplished, and interpreted, if practicable, so as to promote and not destroy the purpose of its enactment.

With respect to four of the ballots it has been seen that the cross mark was placed either at the extreme left or midway above or below the name of the party or candidate and not in the appropriate blank space at the right of each name, lots for that purpose as required by the act of 1891 while on one of the ballots a short, straight line was used to mark the ballot instead of a cross.

If it be conceded that the intention of the voter may be correctly inferred from the mark actually made by him in each of these instances, it is still a fatal objection to the ballot that such an irregular and unauthorized mode of marking it might readily be and probably would be agreed upon with the voters as a distinguishing mark to identify the ballot cast by him whenever identification was desired. Such a palpable disregard of the plain requirements of the act strikes at the root of the secret ballot system.

Furthermore if such marks were to be held effective embarrassing questions respecting the intention of the voter would constantly arise upon inspection of the ballots and great uncertainty would be the result.

In a recent case of Irwin v. Whitney, 140 Ind. 561 (13 Am. St. R. 365) being in question the construction of a similar statute which, however, prescribes the form for a ballot with squares printed on it, and requires the square to be stamped by the voter as the means of cast his vote.

The Court says: "The Legislature has declared that the manner in which the elector shall express his choice shall be by stamping certain designated squares on the ballot."

"There is nothing unreasonable in the requirement and it is simple and easily understood. If the voter does not choose to indicate his choice in the manner prescribed by law he can do so by inflicting a mark upon the ballot. It is not counted when it is sent to the Board of Aldermen in sufficient number to deprive the right of the voter to have his vote counted. The mark that disfigures it may be stamped without detriment to the square. If the stamp be placed before it can be rejected. One board of election officers may reach a conclusion to which of the ballots with the squares are not stamped and another board may reach another and different conclusion. If we hold this statute to be directory merely, and not mandatory we are left entirely without any fixed rule by which officers of election are to be guided in counting the ballots."

In the State of Rhode Island the statute likewise makes no express provision for squares on the ballot but declares that the ballot shall be so printed as to give each voter a fair opportunity to designate his choice by a cross mark in a sufficient number, to the right of the name of each candidate, and that the elector shall prepare his ballot by marking it in the appropriate margin or place or square opposite the name of the candidate. As in this State however the official ballots appear to have been prepared with squares on it and upon the right of each name.

In 1890 the question was submitted to the supreme court by the Governor which of many marks on it should be placed in the square to the right of the name could be counted as votes, if the Court say: "Our opinion is that a cross is the only mark that can be counted as a vote. But in answer to a second question the Court holds that in such case their statute does not distinctly provide for squares upon the ballot. A cross placed in the margin of the ballot on the right of the opposite to the name of a candidate should be counted as a vote for the candidate opposite to which it is placed, whether the margin be a square or not, and if there is a square in it even though the cross is made without or partly within the square."

Are the votes in question in this case?

The voter who marked ballot No. 18 effectually marked the name of two candidates for Alderman from ward seven, and by the plain terms of the statute his ballot could not legally be counted for such office.

The decision of the Board of Aldermen in refusing to review by this Court under the City Charter of Bangor and of the City Council that each body is sole judge of the election and qualification of its own members, but this is to be construed to afford an adequate and primary tribunal of the right not to supersede Dillon's Mun. Corp. § 148, will not preclude a contestant from resorting to the Court for a revision of a question of law.

The principle is that the jurisdiction of the Court remains unless it appears with equivalent certainty that the legislature intended to oust it. See Dillon's M. C. § 203, and authorities cited. See also Andrews v. Inhabitants of Mt. Desert, 82 Me. 267, where the supervisory power of the Court is carefully considered.

It has been the policy of the legislature of this State to enlarge rather than to restrict the admitted power of the Court to quash illegal elections.

Chapter 138 of the laws of 1880 (Revised Statutes, Ch. 82) authorized a special proceeding in equity by a contestant for any county office, and Chapter 260 of the laws of 1883, extended the scope of this statute to include a contestant for any municipal office which has been declared elected thereto by any returning officer or officers.

In the case at bar it has been held that the decision of the board of Aldermen brought in question the correctness of the statute of 1891. It involved the determination of a question of law and not an issue of fact or a matter of discretion.

The ruling of the single justice of this Court was clearly correct.

Decree below affirmed with additional costs.

TWO MURDERS AND SUICIDE

Frightful Morning Tragedy in Halifax, N. S.

A Halifax, N. S., despatch says: At 9 o'clock this day forenoon Richard Savage shot his three-year-old child dead, shot his wife and then himself. The woman and the man were removed to the Victoria General Hospital, fatally wounded.

Savage married Maggie Lapham in this city five years ago and subsequently removed to New York, where he was engaged as a car driver.

This summer Mrs. Savage returned to her friends in Halifax and told them that she had been cruelly ill used by her husband and that she could no longer live with him. She took rooms over a store on Barrington street, near the Academy of Music and earned her living by dressmaking and sewing.

Savage arrived in Halifax yesterday morning on the steamer Worcester from Boston, under an assumed name. During the day he located his wife, and in the evening visited her apartments greatly to her surprise. He demanded that she should return to New York and again live with him.

She reminded him of his previous cruelty and of the hell upon earth that they had lived while together, and emphatically refused to have anything more to do with him.

This angered him greatly, and he threatened to kill her, but she would neither yield to his pleadings nor threats. She warned him to be careful what he was about, because if he attempted any further ill treatment she had relatives and friends here who would protect her. He threatened her with death and left her.

At 9 o'clock this morning he stealthily crept up to her apartments and again demanded that she should return to New York.

Upon Mrs. Savage again refusing, to entertain the idea he drew a revolver, sent a bullet through the brain of his little child, and then fired at his wife, sending a couple of bullets into her head and neck.

For a moment he surveyed his murderous work and then turned his still smoking revolver upon himself and sent a bullet crashing through his own skull, under the right ear.

His wife had fallen upon the dying body of her child, and the murderer and suicide fell upon the bodies of both.

The revolver shots had been heard in the street, and when people rushed up to the apartment the father and mother were still living, the child was dead.

Savage and his wife were removed to the hospital in the same [illegible]

HAYTIAN CONSPIRACY TIPPED

President Hippolyte Thwarts His Old Enemies

A New York despatch says: Albert Denniseo, who has just completed a tour of the principal towns of Hayti, was a passenger on the steamer Oranje Nassau, which arrived here from Haytian ports. Mr. Denniseo says that two weeks ago the spies of President Hippolyte discovered a conspiracy which had its source among the chronic conspirators at Kingston, Jamaica. Messrs. Manigat, Legitimé and others.

The conspirators were laying an elaborate plan to seize the government, and had collected a number of Englishmen in the plot. Hippolyte checked the revolt at Port Cresse, all of the English men were escorted to an English steamer and warned not to set foot in Hayti again. Several others were also ordered out of the country.

On the following Sunday President Hippolyte made a stirring speech to a large audience.

"Will the order of the country, said he, "shall my press be muzzled? Revolutions with impunity? No, no! Let the people, conspiring against me, know that I am a man of steel and will be an iron of blood if necessary. I am appointed in order and order I will be. Any attempt to upset my government will be severely punished. I'll remember May 1891 and never forget that I will use the rifle and the sword just as pitilessly as my opinion.

Meaning of the Elections.

[Philadelphia Press.]

In 1892 the people voted under a blind, wayward, unreasoning impulse. In 1893 they have recovered their sense, and speak their sober, second thought. A year ago they were deluded into voting a "change." Yesterday they proclaimed that they have had enough of it, and are eager to "change" back to what they madly and foolishly voted away. This awakening of a people, deceived and misguided last year, but now returning to their reason, is majestic and impressive in its sweeping and decisive character. It runs over the whole North. It reaches from Bunker Hill to the foot of the Rockies.

Never before in our history has there been such a decisive reaction in the first year of the new Administration. Never before has there been a demonstration which, in all its circumstances and significance, meant such a deliberate and decided reversal of the popular judgment. The appeal has been taken from the unreflecting and capricious verdict of last year, and it has been overturned. The people call a halt. The Democratic Administration and Congress may go on in their destructive course. They may defy this warning and strike down protection. They may assail the other safeguards of the public weal which Republicans have erected. But they will do it at their peril, and they will find 1894 and 1896 more crushing than 1892.

[New York Tribune.]

The verdict was against Democratic policies and practices. It is cold comfort for the party in power to detect scanty successes here and there. Bare majorities where overwhelming triumph was customary, not less than stunning defeat where victory was thought certain, although the Democratic party thinks its purposes and practices are received by the people. The change of public feeling within one short year is as startling as the change in the condition of business and industry. Those who have been most sure that it would come, when the real meaning of Democratic success was disclosed, hardly ventured to hope that a reaction so complete would come so soon. But to the widespread suffering and incalculable loss which the Democratic policy has produced, Democratic leaders in their anxiety to escape an adverse verdict added outrages singularly calculated to kindle the resentment of respectable citizens. Just what part, purely may have saved from the wreck by its frauds and dishonest apportionments cannot yet be said. But nothing could be plainer than the fact that there has been a tremendous revulsion of public feeling against the party, which was intrusted with power so generously only a year ago.

[Philadelphia North American.]

The verdict of the country upon the avowed policy of the Democratic Administration with regard to the tariff has been rendered and it is one of emphatic and general condemnation. Tuesday's vote admits of no other reasonable interpretation. The judgment of the people was not this time, as it was a year ago, confused, bewildered and obscured by a multiplicity of conflicting issues. Thanks to the wisdom and patriotism, to the courage, intelligence and energy of the Republicans in Congress, the silver question has ceased to be a source of perplexity and disturbance, nor was there this time any opportunity for those shameless compacts with ignorance, demagogism and crime by which the Democratic managers in 1892 secured their victories in the West.

The Republicans did not elect their whole State ticket and secure a majority in both Houses of the Legislature in New York only because the Democratic politicians pushed economy too far to nominate the discredited Maynard, nor was it McKinley's personal prestige alone which rolled up the great majority by which the Republicans have re-elected Mr. Governor of Ohio. The vote which accomplished these things, and which here in Philadelphia has snowed the Democrats out of sight, is the voice of the solid sense, of the mature judgment, of the sober second thought of the American people. It cannot be rationally construed to mean anything else than a repudiation of the Democratic programme, and as such, however obtuse may be the men at Washington by whom the free trade policy of the Democracy is in process of execution, however bent they may have been upon their destructive course, it cannot fail to have its effect in compelling the modification, if not abandonment, of their more dangerous plans.

The country has had a foretaste of what free trade involves, and a foretaste enough. It wants no more. Its curiosity as to what would happen if the Democrats, just as it were for the fun of the thing, for the sake of variety, were placed in absolute control of the national government has been satisfied, and even satiated, and now it evidently desires nothing so much as a return to the days of Republican ascendency, when, as it now realizes in sorrow and repentance, it was so much more prosperous than it then appreciated.

[Boston Traveller.]

The result of Tuesday's election will infuse new courage into the hearts of Republicans throughout the country. Massachusetts, New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Iowa and South Dakota were all carried by great majorities, while in New Jersey the Republicans elected a clean majority of the members of the Legislature, which last year, was two-thirds Democratic. There is no mistaking the meaning of Tuesday's elections. The Republican tide is rising again, and the outlook for next year, when a new House of Representatives will be chosen, is most encouraging. Meanwhile it is a warning to the observant politicians in Congress to keep their hands off from the throat of protection.

[Boston Journal.]

There may be tariff smashing at Washington, but it will not go on with the assent of Massachusetts. And when the voters of this State have a chance to go at the tariff smashers, they will give them an uncomfortable season. It is not going to be so easy as our Democratic friends have imagined to railroad a radical free trade bill, constructed along the lines of the Chicago platform, through Congress. There are millions of wage earners who will resent rough handling of the industries by which they earn support for their wives and children. Congress will approach this question a good deal less jauntily because of Tuesday's expression of popular feeling. And the Democratic party will be wise if it remembers that it is only a year before a new Congress will be chosen. If it defies public sentiment, the control of the House will assuredly pass from its hands.

[Portland Press.]

The figures on our news pages tell the story of yesterday's magnificent Republican victories better than any words of ours can. Six months of a Democratic administration have proved a sufficient to give the lie of optimism.

pacity of that party and the danger which its supremacy threatens to American industry. It is evident enough that the voters have repented their action of last fall and are doing what they can to avert its disastrous consequences by giving the Democratic majority in Congress a foretaste of what they will encounter next fall if they persist in their tariff smashing and wild cat banking schemes. An overwhelming Republican victory has been won all along the line. A tidal wave has swept over the Democracy.

[Keystone Journal.]

The Republican vote has everywhere exceeded the most sanguine predictions, while the Democratic vote has shown a decided falling off all along the line. The fact is very clearly and forcibly established that the voters of the country are not in sympathy with the policy of the Administration. They have experienced its dire effects upon the prosperity of the country and have seized the first opportunity to condemn it with no uncertain sound.

So far from being in the state of disintegration, that has been so vociferously alleged by its opponents, the great party that saved the Union in its hour of peril and that gave to it a national prosperity at once the wonder and admiration of the world, is shown to be in excellent fighting trim. It has won large accession of strength from the Democratic party, and the people have served notice of their purpose to again call it to power at the next national election. The Democrats will undoubtedly endeavor to attribute the avalanche that has so overwhelmed them to purely local causes, but the fact remains that, in every one of the States where the contest has been waged this fall, the battle has been conducted upon national lines.

The issue has been squarely joined between protection and free trade, and there is no escaping the force of the people's verdict. It remains to be seen whether the Southerners, who are assailing the Democratic party and conducting its free trade programme, will heed the wishes of the people so emphatically expressed at the polls, or whether they will continue their zealous adherence to a policy that has already undermined the magnificent prosperity that prevailed under Republican rule, and brought wide-spread disaster to the American people.

Cause and Effect.

(CAUSE.)	(EFFECT.)
Greenhalge elected. His plurality will be the very close of 37,000.	Tariff revision must be so undertaken and so carried out that its results will commend themselves to the people everywhere. It must be demonstrated beyond a shadow of a doubt that a reform of the abuses of McKinleyism does not and cannot mean injury to any legitimate business interest.

The above extracts are from the Boston Globe, a leading Democratic organ in New England. It is evident that while our contemporary speaks of the alleged "abuses of McKinleyism," it interprets the result of the elections as an unmistakable warning to the free trade Democracy to abandon the tariff smashing programme in process of construction in the secret chambers of the Capitol.

Per Capita Circulation.

Hon. S. W. Matthews propounds the following conundrum in the columns of the Kansas Journal:

Will those financiers who claim that national prosperity depends upon the amount of money in circulation per capita explain the following figures:

	Amount per Capita.
1862	$18 63
1863	18 [illegible]
1864	17 90
1865	18 [illegible]
1866	19 [illegible]
1867	19 [illegible]
1868	19 [illegible]
1869	19 [illegible]
1870	20 [illegible]
1871	20 [illegible]
1872	20 [illegible]
1873	21 [illegible]
1874	22 [illegible]
1875	22 [illegible]
1876	22 [illegible]
1877	22 [illegible]
1878	22 [illegible]
1879	22 [illegible]
1880	23 [illegible]
1881	24 [illegible]
1882	24 [illegible]
1883	24 [illegible]
1884	24 [illegible]
1885	24 [illegible]
1886	24 [illegible]
1887	24 [illegible]
1888	24 [illegible]
1889	24 [illegible]
1890	24 [illegible]
1891	24 [illegible]
1892	24 [illegible]
1893	24 47

These figures would seem to prove that abundant circulation alone does not necessarily bring about great prosperity. But the trouble is that with an abundance of money for circulation is provided, the conditions of business do not bring money into circulation.

Life Insurance the Protector of the Defenceless.

Life insurance—pure and simple—unaffected by any of the other considerations that make certain forms of investment insurance so desirable and so extremely attractive, is the protector of those who, without it, would be defenceless—the shield from the biting storm of poverty—the assurance of daily bread when the bread winner lies in the deep and silent grave—the certainty of a friend in need—a friend in fact.

LIKES MR THOMAS

Emperor William Sends a Display guished Maine Man His Portrait

BERLIN, Nov 9 Emperor William of Germany has sent Hon W W Thomas, Jr, minister to Sweden and Norway, a copy of Max Koner's portrait of His Majesty, which hangs in the national gallery in Berlin. The portrait bears the autograph "William, Imperator Rex."

The gift was sent to Mr Thomas through Count Von Dorfrachen, attaché of the German Legation at Stockholm. Emperor William took a great fancy to Mr Thomas, with whom His Majesty went elk hunting at Hunneberg in September, at a recent audience given by the Emperor to Hon Theodore Dwight, American ambassador, His Majesty told him that he greatly liked Mr Thomas.

TARIFF ON LUMBER

Lumbermen Discuss that Question at Toronto

TORONTO, Ont, Nov 9 An important meeting of American lumbermen who operate largely in Canadian lumber is being held here. Business is transacted behind closed doors. It was learned to-night that the most important matter under discussion is the proposed revision of the United States tariff.

All expressed the opinion that, if concerted action were not taken immediately Congress would insist upon the admission of lumber free of duty. The effect of such legislation would force them to confine their interests wholly in Canada. It was decided to restrict the output for the coming season.

WALL STREET BROKER

Seems to be in an Unenviable Position

NEW YORK, Nov 9 William J Patton a Wall street broker, whose firm failed May 5, surrendered himself to the sheriff to-day. Suit was brought against Patton by the Craigs, estate to recover $60,000 which it is charged he had embezzled. Twenty days were given to make an answer. He disappeared and the time has now expired. Lawyer Hornman made a motion for judgment against Patton for $60,000. This will probably be granted and in case Patton does not pay the amount imprisonment is the alternative.

Were there Any Democrats in Pennsylvania this Year?

Jackson's Plurality in the State Found to be Over 138,000

The Entire Republican Ticket Elected in Nebraska.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov 9 Official returns from every county in the State, except three small ones, and careful estimates for those three, show a plurality of 138,684 for Jackson, Republican, for state treasurer.

This plurality is the largest ever given any candidate in Pennsylvania, the highest previous plurality, 137,728, being given to Grant over Greeley in 1872. The vote was lighter this year than for several years past.

Republicans Sweep

LINCOLN, Neb, Nov 9 Sufficient returns have been made to make certain the election of Harrison for Judge of the Supreme Court and the entire Republican state ticket.

WASHINGTON NEWS.

Tinkering the Tariff—What it is Proposed to Do.

WASHINGTON, Nov 9 The Democratic members of the Ways and Means committee of the House had a conference with Secretary Carlisle to-day on the construction of the new tariff bill. Mr Mills, Mr McMillan, Turner, Breckinridge, of Arkansas, Bynum and Montgomery were present. It is generally understood at the Treasury Department that no material changes will be made in the internal revenue schedule except to increase the duty on whiskey, put a duty on crude and refined sugar and do away entirely with the bounty on sugar, which this year foots up nearly $10,000,000.

Our Foreign Mail Service

The annual report of Captain N M Brooks, superintendent of foreign mails, shows that the total cost of the service for the fiscal year was $1,141,650 of which sum $916,030 was paid on account of vessels of American register. The estimated amount of postage collected on foreign mail matter is $902,189. The total number of pounds of mail carried was 6,613,353. The report asserts that the occasional subsidy act of March 3d, 1891, proved a failure. Upon the direct payment to United States steamships approximate during the year on account of this act, it is stated as $406,627, and for this sum nothing was realized. There has not been any increased service, either as to the frequency of trips, or reduction in the time in consequence of it.

Norwegian Extradition Treaty

Secretary Gresham and Minister Grip yesterday exchanged ratifications of the Norwegian extradition treaty.

Lowest Point Ever Reached by Treasury Balance

It is surprising that balance to-day was $61,909,21, of which $81,068,412 is in gold and the balance in currency. This is the lowest point ever reached. General suspension of business and the holding of gold is the probable cause.

THE WILLIAM SMITH

To be Sold at Auction to Satisfy Claims

NEW YORK, Nov 9 The schooner William Smith, which was picked up at sea 300 miles off the coast of North Carolina by the Clyde steamship Seminole, for the August sale, has been towed to New York, and is to be sold November 13th at public auction, by order of the United States marshal to satisfy the salvage claim for salvage etc of the Boston Dry Dock Erie Basin Brooklyn. The schooner is dismasted and thoroughly ruined. In other respects she is in good condition. The boat cost to build $33,000. She was built at Camden, Maine, in 1890, and her gross tonnage is 187.

MARINE NEWS

For some time Mr. Davis has been failing in health and has been very despondent. The tragical deed is described by those who knew him best as mental aberration. He was private secretary of ex-Governor Ames for twenty years or more. He was president, treasurer and [illegible] of the Ames Plow Company [illegible]

ENOUGH TO KILL FORTY.

A Very Large Quantity of Poison Found by an Autopsy.

Mrs Toole and Daughter, of South Boston, Foully Murdered

Two Sons and a Daughter Arrested on Charge of Murder.

BOSTON, Nov. 9 The autopsy to-day upon the bodies of Mrs. Hannah Toole and her daughter, Margaret, who died suddenly last night after drinking porter and eating chocolate pie, revealed enough cyanide potassium in their stomachs to cause the death of forty persons.

More Serious Aspect

The Toole poisoning case assumed a more serious aspect this evening when Stephen Toole, another son of Mrs Toole, was arrested and the formal charge of murder preferred against him and his brother, Michael A and sister, Mary L Toole, the latter two being arrested earlier in the day. In addition to the poison found in the stomachs of Mrs Hannah Toole and her daughter Margaret considerable was found, it is said, in the dregs of the porter remaining in the glass from which they drank.

Thomas J Toole, the father, who has been ill for some time, died this evening. An autopsy will be performed upon his body, probably to-morrow. He had been kept in ignorance of the death of his wife and daughter. The family was one of the best known in South Boston, had lived there for years and was well to do in circumstances.

EASY MILE FOR HIM

Directum Goes a Mile in 2 08—Flying Jib Fails to Break His Record

HARTFORD, Ct, Nov 9 Directum trotted a mile in 2 08 here to-day. The quarter was in 32¾ and the half in 1 08¼.

Flying Jib was sent to beat his record of 2 04. He went around the track without a break but the cold wind blowing on the back stretch retarded him so that the time was 2 06¾.

An exhibition was given by the two year old colt sired by Director, a half brother of Directum and never before on a track to a sulky. The colt made a quarter of a mile in 41¼.

About two thousand people gathered at Charter Oak Park to-day to see Directum and Flying Jib make a try at their records. Some wind was blowing, the air was raw and chilly and the track was not in the best of condition. Considering these things remarkably fast time was made. Directum seemed to be in fine form and when Driver John Kelly asked for the record he was going at a record clip. Without once getting off his stride he sailed around the track as even and swift a gait that those who did not hold watches felt sure that he

of 2 06¼. He did not quite do it, time by quarters 32¾, 1 03¼, 1 35 – 08.

Kelly also drove Flying Jib both in the attempt against time and in the race with Lou Warren on a bicycle. In the race against his record of 2,05 the pacer made splendid attempt considering the track and weather. The time by quarters 31¾, 1 02¼, 1 32¾, 2 01¼.

Flying Jib won the race with the bicyclist easily in 2 10, Warren behind five seconds later.

The little trotter Sea King was sent against his record of 2 21¼. He did a mile in 2 23 and seemed to finish tired.

In the special race between Charley C, record 2 11¼, Little Albert record 2 10, both belonging to Monroe Salisbury, a string, and Kick Kick, a bay mare belonging to Al Rusk of Willmantic, record 2 15¼, the latter knocked three quarters of a second from her record. The summary:

Kick Kick, bm	1	1
Little Albert, ch g	2	2
Charley C, br g	3	3

Time, 1 03, 2 10¼.

The race between two horses in the 2:30 class was won by Joseph Dennis's bay mare, Minnie T, in straight first heats, time 2 21¾.

Terrible Slaughter of the Matabeles

LONDON, Nov 9 A dispatch from Johannesburg says the Fort Tuli column captured Buluwayo Nov 2. Gorubo, Lo Benguila's son in law, is reported killed. The Matabeles fought with desperate fury, but they found it impossible to stand up against the machine guns, which laid the dead in swaths upon the field. It was not until two thousand of the Matabeles were killed that the remaining members of the impis retreated.

Sultan of Morocco Knows his Business

MADRID, Nov 9 It was announced here to-day that the Sultan of Morocco has acceded to the Spanish demands for reparation for the attacks on Melilla by the Riffians. The Sultan, it is said, sent two thousand horsemen under command of his most trusted chief to the Riffians ordering them to cease hostilities against the Spanish. If the Riffians refuse to obey the Sultan will send an army to enforce his order. Spain will maintain a defensive attitude until she is assured of complete satisfaction.

In view of the pacific assurances of the Riffians and the expected interference of the Sultan a truce was declared at Melilla. The Riffians demanded that hostilities be suspended until next Wednesday when arrangements might be made for permanent peace. Gen Macias, commander at Melilla declined to grant the extension. Unless the Riffians should surrender at noon to-day he said he would resume the cannonade. The truce ended at noon and the forts and gunboats resumed cannonading the Riffian trenches.

It is reported that three hundred Riffians were killed and one thousand wounded in the recent trench fighting. The government here approves of Gen Macias attitude towards the Riffians' proposals for an armistice.

Cossacks Kill Peasants Who Tried to Rescue Priests

BERLIN, Nov 9 Advices from St Petersburg state that twenty two Catholic priests were a few days ago exiled from the Vistula district on the charge that they had opposed the authorities. Yesterday, under guard, the priests started for their destination. A large number of peasants attempted to rescue them from their gendarmes. A desperate fight followed. The gendarmes were reinforced by Cossacks who fired into the crowd killing and wounding many persons. Further trouble is feared.

Effects of the Appalling Disaster

MADRID, Nov 9 A dispatch from Santander says that many cases of dynamite were recovered to-day from the wreck of the Cabo Machichaco. The town of Santander was virtually destroyed. The damage was not supposed to be so extensive. All the military here in running all unsafe buildings. More than 2,000 citizens are encamped in the suburbs near Santander.

It is reported that the captain ship of the Cabo Machichaco has arrived off Santander with a cargo of dynamite.

The Ministry Defeated

ATHENS, Nov 9 The ministry was defeated to-day in the election of the president of the chamber of deputies. The cabinet at once resigned. The king charged M Trikoupi to form a new ministry.

Funeral of Composer Tschaikowsky

ST PETERSBURG, Nov 9 The funeral of Tschaikowsky, the composer, was held to-day. An impressive service followed the body to Kazan Cathedral, where the body was blessed. From the cathedral the body was taken to the Alexander Nevski monastery for interment. Many civil and military officials of the imperial household and government departments were in the procession.

The death of Pierre Tschaikowsky by cholera in Russia removed one of the most eminent composers of the world to-day. He was born in Sebinsk Wiatka in the Urel district of Russia and moved to Russia when ten years old. Here he entered the school of jurisprudence, and after completing the prescribed course he was appointed to a post in the Department of Justice.

This was in 1865 but when three years later, Nicholas Rubinstein founded the Conservatory of Music at St Petersburg Tschaikowsky decided to relinquish the law and devote himself to the study of the theory of music. He made rapid progress, taking his diploma in 1869 and also a prize medal for his cantata on an ode by Schiller. He was invited by Rubinstein to take the post of professor of composition in the conservatory and discharged his duties until 1877, when a serious nervous affection caused him to resign the professorship.

Teaching was not agreeable to him and he afterward devoted himself entirely to composition, creating for himself a reputation which places him in the front rank of modern composers. In Russia the works of Tschaikowsky are more and more even than those of Rubinstein. He was a master of all resources of the modern orchestra. His more important works comprise nine operas and ballets, five symphonies and several symphonic poems, concertos and lesser works for orchestra.

Many of those unfamiliar to American concert goers. His suite No 3 for orchestra was given during the first Music Hall festival in Boston. He wrote several operas, among them "Opritchnik, so called after the body guard of Ivan the Terrible, "Vakula the Blacksmith" founded on Gogol's novel of that name, the "Enchantress" and others. But none of these met with permanent success.

Cesar Cui, himself a composer of note, in his interesting volume of Russian music states that Tschaikowsky lacked dramatic force and dramatic style, that he wavered between the old school and the new. But for this very reason his European success was all the greater.

THE PAPER A DEED

Maine Woman Defrauded by a Boston Young Man

A Winthrop Me despatch says Mr H A Cliff of this place, has been the victim of a plot by which she is the loser of $6,000. She has kept the secret until within a short time. But the loss preyed upon her mind so much that she has given vent to her feelings and told the facts of the case.

Mrs Flint formerly lived in Massachusetts. While there she made the acquaintance of a young man Thomas Addison by name, whose intellect was far above the average and whose reputation was above reproach. He afterward employed her hospitably at her home here. He was not her protege as has been stated, but only a supposed friend.

Two years ago, while Mrs Flint was in Massachusetts looking over her property, some of which was situated in West Roxbury, Thomas Addison proposed that she give him a power of attorney for the purpose of transacting business in her behalf. After some talk Mrs Flint signed what she supposed was a paper giving Addison the proper authority to act, but in reality it was a deed conveying this property in West Roxbury to Thomas Addison.

She was greatly surprised on going to her property later to find everything removed from the interior—even the gas fixtures, the steam radiators, and all things pertaining to the interior, had been taken out and sold, with the exception of a piano and a chair or two.

She wrote to the lawyer in whose office she signed the paper, about the transaction, and received in reply a very saucy and ungentlemanly letter, stating that the property had been deeded to Addison and that the deed was properly recorded. She immediately sought legal advice and finally the property was redeeded back to her.

In the meantime a mortgage had been given on the property for $4,000. She took the property with all the incumbrances, and kept up the interest and taxes until she could no longer bear it and on Monday last the property was sold for the mortgage, which will take, Mrs Flint thinks, all that was realized. Addison was not alone in this fraudulent transaction.

Addison was favorably known here, and news of his crookedness was a heavy blow to friends here, who placed explicit confidence in the man. He helped on the history of Winthrop, edited by the Blake Bros., and is a prolific writer on most any subject. He promised to pay back the sum taken, which, though it is quite large, it is possible for him to do, as he is a young man of ability. He acknowledges the enormity of his wrongdoing, and is trying to make amends.

Mr Thomas Dacey, the proprietor of a fish market in Ellsworth, left six weeks or two months ago for a trip to Chicago and the World's Fair, intending to return in two or three weeks. He has not been seen since and no word has been received [illegible]

The sermon at the anniversary of the Young Men's Christian Association Sunday, Nov 26th will be preached by Rev A B Kingsley, pastor of the First Baptist church.

Triangle Lodge, I O G T, will have a social at their hall on Main street, to-night. A oyster supper will be served during the evening. A pleasing event is expected.

The Armada Pedrum Club will hold a social at their hall in Frost Market square to-night. There will be an entertainment and supper will be served from 5 to 10 o'clock. All are invited.

Ernest, the fourteen years old son of Dr C W Allen, of Brewer, while firing a revolver pistol this morning shot himself, the ball entering his leg just above the knee. The wound is not dangerous.

The W Ellery Wyman Society, of the Central church, contemplate changing their city to the Y P S C E and it is intended to elect officers in about a week at a meeting to be held for that purpose.

At the 4th anniversary of the Bangor Woman's Relief Corps this evening in G A R Hall refreshments will be served. All veterans and their families, Sons of Veterans and families only are invited to be present on this occasion.

Mr J D Turgeon, of Burce & Clifford returned yesterday from Boston where he secured the brief needed for the Gold section of the tower of the City Hall building. He will go on with the work in the morning.

Mr Cold Silk Sweet has secured the services of Mr B A Bigelow, of Boston, to take charge of his manufacturing and retail business and Mr Bigelow has entered upon his new duties. He has had long experience in the drug business.

The people of Bangor are to be favored with a fine entertainment December 4th, when Miss McCobb of Portland who is deservedly become a favorite with Bangor audiences, will render Midsummer Night's Dream with musical accompaniment.

For several years it has been the custom throughout America and Europe as well, to observe the Second week in November as a period of prayer for young men and Young Men's Christian Associations. There will be the usual observance this year.

Mr Carl Beers will have his fourth annual exhibition of pot grown chrysanthemums at his Mt Hope avenue conservatories to-day and Saturday and on Tuesday and Wednesday will have a free exhibition and sale of cut chrysanthemums at Warren's drug store.

The regular monthly business meeting and social of the Y P S C E of the First Baptist church will be held this evening with Miss Fairbanks, No 220 Ohio street. Those who wish can take the 7 30 street cars from West Market square. An interesting and unique programme has been arranged for the occasion.

Jansonia Bakery, Hammond street will supply baked beans and brown bread Saturday nights and Sunday mornings, and he would be glad to fill all his orders Saturday to do away with Sunday delivery. This is a good idea and housekeepers should aid him in carrying out the plan. Give the men and horses a rest on Sunday.

The launching of the steamer City of Lowell, which was to have taken place this week at Bath, has been postponed to November 21st. Great interest has been manifested by Maine people generally in this vessel, which is the first iron passenger steamer built in this State, and it is expected that a large number will be present to witness the launching.

Bethany Circle of King's Daughters of the Universalist church to the number of fifty, paid a visit to the Home for Aged Women yesterday afternoon and very pleasantly entertained the ladies with a programme which included excellent readings by Miss Anna B Snow and Miss Lottie Jordan. It was a very interesting and enjoyable visit to all.

A man who gave his name as John Cummings, which, however, is not thought to be his right name, was buried at Brownville Wednesday. He had been at work on the line of the Bangor & Aroostook railroad and was taken sick and died. It is not known who he was. He had stated that he had some brothers in Boston but did not say who they are.

At the sacred concert to be given at The Norombega next Sunday evening Mrs Potter will sing the "Festival Offertory" by Keller, accompanied by the Schubert Quartette. Pullen's orchestra, among its numbers, will play strong quartette and sextette selections. There will doubtless be a large attendance. Tickets are for sale at D Bugbee & Co's.

Capt Ingraham, of the steamer Penobscot, which arrived in port yesterday at 2 P M, says that he never had a better round trip to Boston and return than the last one. During the entire trip both ways there was not a ripple on the surface of the ocean and the steamer went along as smoothly as though on a mill pond. A large amount of freight was brought from Boston for different places along the line.

A very pleasant wedding occurred Wednesday evening at No 17 Lincoln street where the newly married couple are to reside. The contracting parties were Mr. John B Newcomb, conductor on the street railway, and Miss Florence E Delano, both of this city. The ceremony was performed by Rev. C S Frost, assisted by Rev G H Cutler. Mr. and Mrs Newcomb have the best wishes of their many friends.

A correspondent writes "The harvest concert at Central District last Sunday evening was very largely attended and was fully appreciated by the audience. The room was handsomely decorated, much taste being shown in the arrangements. A quartette composed of Mrs. Clark, Miss Low, Mr. Ray and Mr. Clark sang two selections, and a duet by Miss Low and Mr Ray, and a solo by Mr. Ray was a part of the programme. A reading by Miss Agnes Persson was listened to very attentively. Mr. Charles Fisher, of the Seminary, delivered a very appropriate address. The collection taken was [illegible]

FOOT BALL

The B. H. S Takes a Rest To-day

The B H S foot ball team after continual practice every day except Sunday, will rest to-day in order to be in the best possible condition for Saturday's game at Portland with the Portland High School. Great interest is being taken in the contest by foot ball enthusiasts and the result of the game will be awaited with much expectancy.

There is almost nothing by which to compare the work of the two teams thus far as the Bangor boys have not played any of the teams which Portland has met. Portland has an unbroken list of victories with one exception. This was the game early in the fall with the Colby Varsity team which beat Portland by the close score of 4-2.

Portland without doubt has a strong team and judging from all reports has a good chance of winning. On the other hand the Bangor boys have played good foot ball during the fall and have defeated teams supposed to be stronger and surely heavier than their own. The indications are that it will be a very close game.

Gilman will play center rush after all and will prove valuable in that position. His weight will be handy in center plays, both offensive and defensive.

The team which will go to Portland will be made up as follows: Gilman, center, Hickson and Jordan, guards, Howard and Veazie, tackles, Palmer and Sawyer, ends, Seavey, quarter back, A Howard and Stetson, half backs, and C Sawyer, full back.

The Bowdoin freshmen defeated the Colby freshmen 18-4 at Augusta Wednesday.

County Expenses

Editor Whig and Courier

It is not the purpose of the County Commissioners to indulge in any unjust criticism either upon the police department of the city of Bangor, the Municipal Court or any in authority; well knowing that order must be maintained and the streets kept clear of drunken men but we desire to raise the question whether drunkenness is really on the increase as shown by our bills of costs and the amount paid for board of prisoners at the jail this last quarter, since as a matter of fact more than three fourths of the arrests are for drunkenness. If drunkenness is increasing so rapidly as indicated by these items, it is not a matter for most serious reflection. Below we give the amount paid for board of prisoners each quarter from January 1st 1890 to the present time.

For quarter ending

March 31st, 1890	$910 75
June 30	1119 25
September 30	1127 75
December 31	1[illegible]
March 31, 1891	1001
June 30	1251
September 30	1[illegible]
December 31	1[illegible]
March 31, 1892	1[illegible]
June 30	1[illegible]
September 30	1[illegible]
December 31	1[illegible]
March 31, 1893	1[illegible]
June 30	1251
September 30	1[illegible]

In this you will see that our expenses are largely on the increase. Why is this so? We can ask questions but can not answer them. Are not more arrested than need to be? Are they not given too long sentences? Are thirty, sixty or ninety days more punishment to the habitual soaker than ten days, further than the loss of his liquor? And then the suggestion arises whether the other end of this matter is cared for as conscientiously. Is there as much diligence shown in enforcing the law against the seller as against the drinker? If the habitual seller were hauled up as eagerly as is the habitual drinker would not justice be better enforced, and would not drinking be more likely to decrease? Do those who pay a fine of fifty or a hundred dollars once a year into the county treasury consider that he is sort of a license for their business and sell more freely on that account? Now it may be that some fault lies with the commissioners in not providing harder work for our county prisoners.

Our jail and workshop is a comfortable place, well warmed and lighted and we never heard it charged that our kind hearted Sheriff did not feed and care for them well, while the labor that they are required to do making brooms, is very light.

To put the matter in as mild a form as we can the county is paying the bills of too many drunken men. What is the remedy? We have thought about the Keeley cure and we have thought about establishing a stone yard where they can be made to crush stone by hand to be used in making roads, as a means by the harder work of red clinging the county household.

HOW TO CLOTHE CHILDREN.

A Problem That Makes Mothers Study.

A MINISTER'S WIFE WHO DRESSES HER FAMILY IN EXCELLENT TASTE—HOW A SMALL INCOME WENT A LONG WAY—THE CONGREGATION KNOW NOT HOW IT IS DONE.

The pulpits in many a mother's forehead are deepened as she studies how to dress her boys and girls in a respectable manner on the small amount that is available.

A minister's wife in a small town near this city was confronted by this disconcerting situation but her woman's wit and a few ten cent packages of diamond dyes solved the problem and handsome clothing were soon evolved from a pile of odds and ends. Some of the congregation were heard to remark that it was wonderful how Mrs Parsons managed to dress her family so well on such a slender income, but they never knew

The Home Housekeeper, Ladies Home Companion Mother household hints have proved helpful in many articles telling how to make flannels look like new, making new clothing out of old. Pretty dresses, handsome cloaks, serviceable stockings and jaunty hats in fact almost anything that little money can buy, for the children but for the mothers as well, is fully set forth in these columns. The wonderful results which diamond dyes are used in really surprising. They make beautiful colors that never crock nor fade nor fall in spots. While there are other good dyes there is none specially fitted for such fast colors says Joan. Think the recent number of The Home.

I have tried other dyes but the diamond dyes are the most go in. Their fast stocking black is the only black dye for cotton I have ever found that does not rub off. I wish every woman knew how I have washed

Eggs are rather scarce just at present and they bring good prices

Mrs Kendall and Miss Lizzie Dillingham, of Orrington, have arrived home after a visit in Massachusetts

The First Congregational M P S C E holds its regular weekly preparatory meeting this evening, in the vestry

The weather changed yesterday and became much cooler and a strong breeze added to the frigidity of the atmosphere

Mr and Mrs Calvin Murch, who were recently married in North Orrington, have gone to Ellsworth for a visit with the former's parents there

Mr S N Hodgdon, the lumberman, is making preparations to send another crew of men up river to the scene of his coming winter operations soon

The Junior Endeavor Society of the First Congregational church, had a social at the vestry last evening A large number of the children were present and the evening was very pleasantly passed with games of various kinds

The present term of the High school is to be fourteen weeks in duration and the winter term will be but ten weeks This is done for the accommodation of the pupils, the arrangement bringing their vacation so as to include Christmas week

Two thousand land-locked salmon have been placed in Phillips lake this week. They were young fish, about three inches in length. The work of stocking the pond in his vicinity with fish is progressing well and in a few years it will be greatly appreciated by the anglers

Street Commissioner Holbrook has had his crew at work this week on Chamberlain street, repairing and putting in good condition, quite a stretch of the sidewalk on the easterly side A large amount of work has been done on this street this year and its condition and appearance have been greatly benefited by it, which is duly appreciated by the residents

Messrs I W Ayer & Co who have already had a large number of logs sliding down Dead Water cove, have their crews working again hauling out another big lot By the time the river closes this firm will have an immense quantity of logs shingled and they will enable the big mill at South Brewer to start sawing early in the spring and to continue for a long time before next year's drives will be needed

FOUR LYNCHED UNDER OVERTREE

Three Negro Men and One Woman Were Hanged by White Citizens in Tennessee

A special from Lynchburg, Tenn, shows that town true to its name It says The first person to pass along the Boonsville turnpike near this town at dawn today, found suspended from the same tree the lifeless bodies of four negroes one of them a woman

This discoverer was the driver of the Lynchburg and Fayetteville stage, and when he had gathered himself together after the first shock he spurred his horses into town

Immediately a crowd gathered about him, and together they returned to the tree and there it was discovered that the dead bodies were those of Ned Waggoner, Will Waggoner, his son in law Sam Mottlow and his daughter Mary wife of Mottlow

This is one of the quaintly thriving towns wedged down on the farm of Jack Daniels, at the side of the turnpike just outside the town of Lynchburg The large tree from which the bodies were suspended stands in the center of the place and the ground about it was trampled as by the hoofs of many horses and the heel beats of many men

The story of which this tragedy is the climax involves many grievances but all high negroes were hanged and white men were the executioners the charge of assault upon a woman had nothing to do with it

The circumstances which led up to the lynching are as follows A little more than a year ago "Ned" Waggoner was convicted of stealing wheat from Farmer Womack's barn and was sent to the Penitentiary Recently he was released and celebrated the event by burning Farmer Womack's barn For years he has been known as a desperate character

Mary Mottlow who is his daughter and Sam Mottlow's wife entered Frank Hobbs' house a short time ago and robbed it This was sufficient against her

Sam Mottlow, a few weeks ago attempted to kill John Downs a son of one of the prominent citizens of Moore county because he had taken steps to get some of the others in former times Several months ago Farmer Hobbs house which was robbed by Mary Mottlow, for which she was put in jail was burned, and this was laid to Will Waggoner son of "Ned"

Other fires in the neighborhood of Lynchburg have been frequently laid to all of these things were also laid to the two Waggoners and Mottlows

The four negroes lived together and did nothing for a living and it seemed to the depredations and arsons there after would never cease Finally about a week ago two reliable young men crept up to the house where the prisoners lived and there through a dim window in the glare of the hearth fire saw the gang in consultation

Drawing close to the house they saw a plot matured to burn several other houses and to hold certain other prominent people The young men noiselessly withdrew and nothing was done that night The next night however a number of citizens whose names cannot yet be told out of hat at the Waggoner household and quietly informed Ned with that if they would leave the country instantly they could depart in peace and if they didn't they might go in pieces

Probably the negroes thought the warning was given so gently that they need fear no danger Anyway they did not go and it is too late to interview them about it now But so decline he to can midnight and down to dawn today a band of two hundred horsemen silently surrounded the Waggoner cabin and the inmates were waked

Beside the four that were hanged there were in the house Mary Waggoner wife of Ned, Henry Mottlow a brother of Sam Mottlow and Will Wise a twelve-year old boy These were kept at the house by a guard, and the four men Pierce who had gone down a slope to the woodlen lawn quick march was made some of the avengers walking with the prisoners and leading their horses and others riding The prisoners were told of their crimes and of the pending punishment

A scramble ensued as the negroes tried to run away A sound of heavy blows followed, groaning, some cursing followed and then silence Four badly beaten negroes lay bruised and subdued on the ground Four ropes with lariats attached were quickly produced and four struggling negroes were dragged toward the big oak tree

"Ned" Waggoner was first strung up but he was heavy and the rope parted and he fell in a heap to the ground The rope was lengthened from his feet and with a rope which was taken from a wagon near by, was placed there and Ned the last was hanged

Next the woman was lynched and Will Waggoner and Sam Mottlow after her The ropes did not break

Leaving the grim witnesses of their deed behind them the mob returned to the house and fearfully pounded "Ned" Waggoner's wife and told her that her husband and all the rest had been hanged and that unless she got out of the county within twelve hours she would share their fate The mob then silently departed and no one can be found who will tell all he knows whether they went or who they were

The wife of "Ned" Waggoner refused to go as the mob was out of sight but Will Wise and Henry Mottlow were at the house when the discovering party reached there this morning They said they did not recognize any one of the mob Of course not If they did they would not say so, for well they know that to tell anything they might be the result

They say that part of the crew were masked, some wore handkerchiefs about their noses and mouths and some were uncovered, but the uncovered ones they say kept at a distance No one living along the turnpike seems to have seen a more or less unusual crowd going either way Of course not Such evidence just now would not add to their happiness and might cut out a job altogether

All this occurred eighty miles south of Nashville Certainly lynching has now won a right to its suggestive name

MILLIONS FOR READING

What the American People Pay for Literary Instruction

NEW YORK Nov 7 The address delivered by Charles A Dana to the students of Union college, upon the subject of "Journalism" would cost if the letter Mr Dana has received in the discussion which his views have occasioned in newspapers be considered to have excited an interest quite as great in the newspaper world as in that of the young collegians both of Union and other universities who have been looking forward to a career in journalism

Some criticism has been heard upon Mr Dana's statement of the peculiar earnings possible for those who follow journalism as the business, and it has been thought that he must have exaggerated But Mr Dana was well within the truth when he spoke of the possible earnings, inasmuch as that pursuit is now in the direction of greater and more comfortable income than any other profession

A company of publishers being lately interested in discussing the expenses and emoluments which literature takes and furnishes including in that word the newspapers, reached some remarkable conclusions, tending to show that next to the amount of money which the American people spend for food, clothing and rent is that spent for books, the business of furnishing to them interesting, entertaining and instructive reading matter necessary illustrations, and this estimate does not include the amount expended for book publication

One of the publishers being asked to give a rough estimate of the amount expended each month for the current year for the monthly magazines published in New York city alone, after a quick computation figured it at $250 000 although sometimes the gross sum he thought would reach as high as figure as $ 00,000 He meant that in the opinion of a relatively small portion of the publishers dealing from New York city presses there is an expenditure yearly of $ 000 000, not including the interest on the capital or any other expense than that of publishing, collecting, printing and delivering the literary articles and the illustrations of them

From this estimate other publishers took up the computing pencil and at a rough guess reported that the expense entailed by publishing literary matter both in the magazines in the weekly newspapers and in some of the other forms of publication outside the daily newspaper field was probably not far from $000,000 a month So that these publishers estimate that the business of publishing literature in New York city alone, not including books and daily newspapers, entails an expense of from $0 000,000 to $3,000,000 a year

This then, is the modern endowment of literature which New York city alone furnishes, and while there are no very reliable data as to the expense of publication of similar forms of literature in other parts of the country, yet the publishers who make these computations were convinced that it is safe to estimate that periodical literature of all forms in the United States entails an outpour every year of not far from $10,000,000 This is an extraordinary development, most of which has appeared, according to these publishers, within the last twenty years

This endowment means that a new industry has been created or a new profession It has made a certain market rate for literature which before that time was dealt in at haphazard prices It has made it possible for men willingly to turn their backs upon law, medicine and the schools and devote themselves to literary work, feeling just as sure of their market as does the farmer or the iron producer. It has created a splendid race of writers whom Mr Dana cheerfully regards as professional men

It has made it possible for those who are in the first class to count on earnings which are greater than the majority of lawyers in the country are able to make, and almost compare with the princely income of the leaders of the bar. It has enabled writers who are of the second class, so to speak, to earn with certainty incomes of from $3,000 to $20,000 a year, and it has made it possible for the [illegible] to earn money by [illegible]
